
Different observables: large surface energy need not imply a port voltage.